

three. The ball game in the afternoon was undoubtedly the best of the year. The Tennessee Rats and Humboldt Champions went eighteen innings to a score of three to four—the Rats winning in the eighteenth with a home run after two were down. The Rats worked their best man—the long left-hander. The Champions used Pitcher Dye, late with the Pocahontas team. They were also forced to fill in with several home boys, and though the editor of this paper did not see the conflict, it is stated that had the regular fielders been on the job the game would have ended in the ninth with Humboldt on the big end of the score.

HUMBOLDT LOSES LONG GAME.

Humboldt, Iowa, Sept. 15.—Brown's Tennessee Rats, the colored team that has defeated so many of Iowa's semi-professionals this season, defeated Humboldt in one of the sensational games of the season in eighteen innings. Dye, who has gained such a reputation for himself this year, pitched airtight ball for Humboldt. Donaldson twirled for the negroes. The same teams played here yesterday in an eleven-inning game, which was won by Humboldt.

Game played September 14, 1911. Humboldt, IA
