

DONALDSON IS GOOD AS EVER

Colored Pitcher Has Local Aggregation at Mercy on Sunday.

Donaldson, the colored pitcher of the All-Nations baseball team, was the drawing card Sunday, when that aggregation played the local club and won by a score of 5 to 0, but if any of the other of the visiting pitchers had worked, the big crowd that attended would have seen a much better game of baseball. The smoky complexioned boy, who is credited with being the greatest pitcher outside organized baseball, did not exert himself and never was in danger of being scored on. With men on bases Donaldson would let loose speed and curves that drove the local batters back to the bench, many times without even having the satisfaction of swinging at them.

Despite that, the game was an interesting one until the seventh inning. Until then Brenner, who was on the mound for the locals, had allowed but one score and that one came through errors. He had not been hit with anything like consistency and had received good support in all but that one instance and he contributed to the count himself by wild pitches.

Gill and Bach played the best games for Grand Forks, both getting two hits out of four times up, and fielding in sensational form. In the eighth inning Brenner went behind the bat, when Braseth hurt his hand and Reilly took his place on the mound. He retired the third batter with one ball and was not scored on in the ninth inning.

In the fifth Braseth let a third strike through him and Wilkes went to first. A hit by Blatner sent him to third and Brenner let him home on a wild pitch. In the seventh the All-Nations outfit began to find the ball, and after Lowe had dropped a throw and let Mendez arrive safe at first, Coleman drove out a three-bagger and he scored. Wilkes took first on a fielder's choice and Blatner poled out another drive for three sacks, and both Coleman and Wilkes scored.

In the eighth a single by Evans and a double by Hernandez counted another and ended the scoring.
