

Rolla Mapel, the local southpaw, pitched for Schmelzer's All-Nations team Saturday afternoon at Kansas City, against the American Giants, a colored team from Chicago, and lost by the score of 3 to 1, although Rolla allowed only four hits, while his teammates secured five hits. However, the Kansas Citians made four errors, to one for the Chicagoans. The loss of the game was more regrettable by the All-Nations team, owing to the fact that they made one score in the first inning and that they held their opponents scoreless until the eighth when they made tyo. In the ninth they made another.
