Vengeance was won by the All-Nation team yesterday afternoon at Bourke park, when they defeated Fred Bradford's Storz Triumphs, 6 to 6. Early in the spring the All-Nations lost to the local semi-professionals in a close and exciting battle, 2 to 1, and the return series brought out a big crowd. The same teams meet this afternoon at the same park.

It was the wonderful pitching of "Broom" Donaldson, the colored hurler of the All-Nations, which saved his team from defeat. He relieved Waubun in the eighth with two out and two on bases. He whiffed Minkus on three pitched balls. In the ninth he struck out four men, Claire reaching first when the third strike went to the net. Donaldson is said to be the most wonderful pitcher that ever performed in Omaha, and he will be on the slab today. Last spring he struck out nineteen of the slugging brewers, but still lost his game on errors.

Chamberlain and Olson pitched well for the Storz, the former being taken out in the eighth to let Lawler hit, and Olson succeeded him. The locals simply could not touch Donaldson, and that was how the game was lost. Carrie Nation, the female first-sacker of the All-Nations, played a great game on the initial sack, but failed to get a hit. Bookman, an Omaha negro, did fine work at short for the visitors.
