An error at the proper time by Centerville gave the All Nations team the game by one score Saturday. The grounds were slow and a hard hit ball would strike the ground and lose its speed, making it impossible at times to judge the ball properly. It was in the eighth inning when Centerville lost the game. Donnelison got a hard ground hit in centerfield, went to second on a passed ball, and from here went home, when Dunbar knocked a grounder to Timmons who stopped it in the dust and then ran past it in attempting to pick the oval up and peg it home in time to catch. Donnelison, who was speeding to the plate,

Both teams were playing about equal and with Clemmons on the mound for the local team the All Nations were unable to get their hits in safe territory, most of the batted balls landing in the infield. Jackson for the opponents was pitching fine ball and while the boys were finding him, they could get farther than the usual only on a few exceptions. Both teams made five hits each and the All Nations made five errors to Centerville's two. It was an interesting game from start to finish, the game ending a short time after the climax, Donnelison who was transferred for Jackson in the eighth inning with two men on bases, striking out the last five men. He was a whirlwind and the boys couldn't see the balls as they whizzed by him. The feature of the game was the two doubles by the All Nations team. Timmons went to first on wild throw to second by a wild throw to first base, when he kicked a grounder to Mendez who stopped it in the dust and then ran past it in attempting to pick the oval up and peg it home in time to catch. Donnelison, who was speeding to the plate.
