Madison's hopes of stopping the Clarkfield team in their baseball winning streak came to naught Sunday, when the locals defeated their all-star hand-picked aggregation with the famous John Donaldson on the mound to the tune of 6-2 in a 11 inning game.

Donaldson, the famous colored pitcher, was on the mound for the locals, striking out 19 of the Clarkfield batters. There is no doubt about his ability as a pitcher. He certainly has the "stuff," but it was impossible for him to extend himself. His stronghold is a wicked curve, coupled with a lot of smoke. Only once or twice did he use it, and when he did the Clarkfield boys would whiff wildly. Many of those in attendance at the game were disappointed that he did not strike out every man who faced him. His only excuse was that he was afraid it would be impossible for the average catcher to handle his fast curves.
