DONALDSON'S ALL-STARS opened their season at Hand's Park yesterday afternoon with an 8 to 1 victory over the Corwith Night-hawks in a game that featured some nifty fielding plays, some terrific hitting by the All-Stars and a masterly bit of hurling by the famous John Donaldson. John hurled the nine frames and was never in danger, after the second inning when "Gabby" Street, Corwith shortstop, doubled with one down. The big sportsider let the fans realize he was still a master performer on the mound by whiffing Bias and Haley for the second and third outs, and both of these boys can club that aggregate. The visitors scored their lone tally in the seventh, and it was a gift—that's all, for with two outs and two on—third and second, respectively, Barnes rapped a bouncer down third base way. Cunningham fielded the ball, but no one was covering the sack and Bias scored on the play. Donaldson then struck out Shipman to retire the side. The Corwith crew collected five blows, including the scratch in the seventh, and John sat eleven of them down via the strike out route. A fair sized crowd watched the clubs battle in the first ball game seen on Hand's Park diamond in a long while.
