

THE MONARCHS PLAY TODAY.

John Donaldson Will Oppose the Tramways in First Game of Series.

What promises to be one of the banner series of the season will open today at Trammay park when the Kansas City Monarchs, who are setting a fast pace in the negro national league, meet the Tramways in the first of a 2 game series.

Special arrangements have been made for the series, new bleachers which will accommodate about 2000 persons having been constructed. John Donaldson, part-time hurling ace of the Monarchs, likely will oppose Ad Brennan on the mound in the opener today. Two games will be played tomorrow, the Monarchs meeting the Aristos in the first game and the Tramways in the second. First game will start at 2 o'clock.
