

FOOD FOR FANS.

(Delayed from last week)
(Starks.)

Those who are disposed to speak disparagingly of the old home team in comparison with the Detroit Stars, should take the trouble to remember the results of the two series played at Detroit.

... .. First Series.

Monarchs won 3, Detroit won 1.

Second Series.

• Monarchs won 3, Detroit won 2.

Here is six games out of nine won while the Monarchs were traveling. In the present series the Detroit Stars were traveling. In the present series the Detroit Stars hav won two games out of the three played so far, with 3 more games to play. The mere fact that the visitors have a shade the best of the games seems to have disturbed a lot of the lukewarm admirers of the home team. If the Detroit Stars won all the remaining games to be played in the series, an improbability, they would have nothing to boast of at that.

While we are making comparisons let us also remember that the Monarchs have made a better record on the road than any other team in the league, considering the teams they have played.

Some more food for fans to feed upon is the fact that Kansas City is fast proving itself the best baseball town on the map by way of patronage. The Chicago community with its breezy inflation, must now accord to our city the palm for general attendance. The week-day crowds here are a marvel to visiting teams, while the Sunday multitudes are astounding.

The Detroit team came in last Saturday to open hostilities with the local leaguers, and some team the northerners have! These boys, after being blanked by the locals for 8 innings, managed to put over two runs in the 9th, tying the score. The Monarchs held them safe for two more extra sessions, but the Detroiters came up in the 12th and got 2 more runs, winning the game. The game was brilliant from the start, Currie pitching perfect ball, holding the visitors with his tight offerings, which they could not see. Johnson, for the visitors, was also effective. The pivotal points of fortune turned at the 9th and 12th periods, giving the score below:

Monarchs	0 2 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 1	1	3	9
