

DONALDSON STILL PITCHING.

(By The Associated Press.)

MINNEAPOLIS.—Pitching baseball after players many years his junior have retired, John Donaldson, Negro southpaw, known through the country for his work with the famous All-Nations of years back, is still hanging up no-hit performances.

Donaldson, now past 40, lives at Bertha, a small Minnesota town, and plays on semi-pro teams. He won twenty-three out of twenty-five games pitched this season.

Council Bluffs Daily Nonpareil, Council Bluffs, IA

Tuesday, October 4, 1927, Page 9, Column 5